Book Title: The Day the Crayons Quit

Author: Drew Daywalt

Rating: ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Review or Report: I enjoyed this book because it was very funny and each crayon was unique. My favorite part was when Yellow and Orange were both saying they were the color of the sun.

Book Title: I Will Take a Nap

Author: Mo Willems

Rating: ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Review or Report: In this book, Gerald is tired and wants to take a nap. However, he has some trouble falling asleep because a friend is distracting him.

Book Title: It's the End of the World and I'm in My Bathing Suit
Author: Justin A. Reynolds	Rating: ★ ★ ★ ★ ★
Review or Report: Eddie is a hilarious narrator who infuses drama and humor into all of his commentary, as seen when he hatches a scheme to avoid doing laundry all summer . . . only to be stuck with nothing but a swimsuit during a power outage. What will he do when the grownups are nowhere to be found? You'll have to read (and laugh at how Eddie describes events such as the horror of doing chores during the summer) to find out.

Book Title: Number the Stars
Author: Lois Lowry	Rating: ★ ★ ★ ★ ★
Review or Report: Set during World War 2 in Denmark, ten-year-old Annemarie Johnansen has accepted the fact that Nazis are now on every street corner. When the invasion in her neighborhood begins to progress and get serious, Annemarie learns that the war is affecting her a lot more than she ever imagined it would. Her best friend's family, the Rosens, are forced to separate for their safety and Annemarie's family steps in to help them. This story teaches the message that when the world you live in needs improvements, bravery is always appreciated, regardless of your age.
